Description
Is there a way to tell it to not create bak files?
Version control kinda obviates the need for it.

Added a new checkbox for being able to disable creating the automatic .bak files on save in the Hammer Parameters.

Note that the option "create .bak file" is disabled by default if you just update the source but not the codemaxedit.ini file. This is a change from before due to how the ini file works.
