Description
When searching, sometimes the search term, when found, isn't highlighted, other times it is.
To reproduce, goto a line that contains a search term, and search for that term and on that very line, it won't highlight the found term....but I've had it happen in other cases as well.

Turns out that this is due to how it currently works.

The user expected that "Start at first line" would remain checked on subsequent invocations of the Find dialog. Quite frankly that makes sense.

Only "Start at first line" was not remembered as it was a feature not native to the scintilla search function. We now added to save this checkbox setting too.
